Challengers Out After Veterans

WASHINGTON (AP)—With backing from some civil rights leaders, challengers are trying in the Illinois primary today to end the congressional careers of two veteran House members allied with the Chicago Democratic organization.

In South Carolina, a former governor, Ernest F. Hollings, is seeking to sideline Democratic Sen. Donald S. Russell.

The top office nominally involved in the Illinois primary is that of picking a Republican candidate to run against Democratic Sen. Paul Douglas, who has no opposition for re-nomination.

But industrialist Charles H. Percy is regarded as such a certain winner of the GOP nomination against weak opposition that attention has centered on the Chicago contests for Democratic nominations to House seats.

The congressional veterans confronted with challenges are Reps. Barratt O'Hara and William L. Dawson. Defeat for either would damage the prestige of Mayor Richard J. Daley's organization with which they are associated.

Trial of Klan Leader Gets Underway

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH
WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal court has subpoenaed the chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities to appear at the contempt of Congress trial of the Ku Klux Klan leader Robert M. Shelton.

At Shelton's request, Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-La., the committee chairman, was subpoenaed along with the committee's staff director, Francis J. McNamara.

They were told to bring along all committee records on the Klan. The House group held hearings last fall into the Klan's activities. Shelton was called as a witness but refused to testify.

The subpoenas ordered Willis and McNamara to appear as witnesses for Shelton when he goes on trial in U.S. District Court here Sept. 12.

Willis said the subpoena was served at his home last Sunday night shortly before midnight.

"It's kind of unusual—I would say nery rather than unusual," Willis said in an interview. He added: "You can't ignore a court order if it's valid. But I don't think I can do him much good."

The subpoenas requested by attorney Lester V. Chalmers Jr. in behalf of his client, Shelton, call for Willis and McNamara to present "all books, records, documents, correspondence, transcripts and memoranda relating to the organization and conduct and affairs of the Klan."

McNamara described Shelton's petition as "a kind of fantastic move."

"It's difficult for me to take this seriously and believe that Shelton really believes the court will uphold him," he told a newsman. As the subpoena now stands, McNamara said, he and Willis are required to bring to the court all documents pertaining to the Klan "even before we thought of investigating the Klan."

The staff director said he expects the Justice Department's Internal Security Division, which is handling prosecution of the case, to move to quash the subpoenas before the trial opens.

Trial of Shelton, 37, identified by the committee as imperial wizard of the United Klans of America, originally was scheduled to begin here Monday. But Chief Federal Judge Matthew F. McGuire continued it until September after a brief hearing.

Shelton refused some 100 times last Oct. 19 to answer committee questions and raised to produce subpoenaed records. He later was cited for contempt by the House and then indicted by a federal grand jury. If convicted, he faces a fine between $100 and $1,000 and a prison sentence from one month to one year.

Growers Co-operative, and Kermit Sneed of Stuttgart, director of the state warm water fish culture laboratory, are to address the group.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Bladder Inflammation Has Various Causes

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have a chronic inflammation of the bladder. What causes it? I get relief by taking Mandelamine, but what I want is a cure.

A—Cystitis is caused by a germ that has reached your bladder either from the outside (ascending infection) or through your blood stream. It is aggravated by a highly acid urine. If the condition is chronic there is no simple treatment since different causative germs require different drugs. Sulfu drugs and nalidixic acid will often eliminate the cause.

Q—For a urinary discomfort my doctor prescribed Mandelamine. When it failed to give sufficient relief he gave me Furadantin. How do these drugs act?

A—Both are urinary antiseptics. They kill some but not all types of germs that cause cystitis.

Q—I have been to several doctors for my cystitis. Each one tries a different treatment. One says there is no cure. Is this true? Can an emotional upset or physical weakness cause cystitis?

A—Cure is often difficult and may require a period of hospitalization under a urologist who will determine what germ is causing your trouble and what other factors are contributing to its chronicity. Emotional upsets may cause an increased frequency of urination but will not cause a true cystitis and neither will physical weakness.

Q—What foods should be avoided by a person with albumin in the urine due to nephritis? Is there any drug that would be helpful?

A—Proteins must be avoided during the acute stage of nephritis, but as soon as this stage is over and there is a free passage of urine and a return of the appetite liberal amounts of protein should be given to overcome the protein deficiency that developed earlier in the course of the disease. You should get a balanced diet, but it is wise to cut down on your intake of salt. A strict attempt to eliminate sodium from your diet, however, is not necessary.

There is no drug that is given specifically to free the urine of albumin. Drugs are given to combat whatever caused the nephritis.

Q—My doctor is giving me nicotinic acid for poor circulation in my feet. Will this correct the trouble or just relieve it? Are there any bad side effects?

A—Nicotinic acid helps to dilate the small arteries in your extremities. Large doses of this vitamin can be taken with safety.

Remarks a Columnist Gets Tired of Hearing

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks that a newspaper columnist gets tired of hearing—or overhearing—

"Your kind of remind me of Will Rogers, except he was funny all the time."

"I guess I'd better be careful what I say to you, or I'll wind up in a column."

"You guys must know a lot more than you actually put in the paper. Tell me, off the record, what's really going on over there in Viet Nam."

"Where do you get all your ideas? Do you copy from someone else, or just make them up out of thin air?"

"I know you write five pieces a week, but what in the world do you do with all your spare time?"

"I wonder if you'd mind giving my son some advice on how to get started in your field. He dropped out of trade school after flunking his course in plumbing, and now he's decided he wants to become a columnist."

"One of the columns you wrote last week sure hit the nail on the head—but darned if I can remember right now what it was all about."

"Wake up, Hank. It's your boss on the phone. He needs a substitute column quick. He said he had to kill the one in which you attacked poison snakes. It's too controversial."

"You mean that's Hank Banaface, the columnist—that fat fellow with the hangdog look. Good grief! I don't know what I expected him to look like, but certainly not like that."

"Wake up, Hank. It's your boss on the phone. He needs another substitute column quick. He says no one at the office can understand the one you wrote for today—not even the new copy boy, the one with a M.A. in sociology from Harvard."

"Could you turn us out a piece for the anniversary edition of our high school paper, Mr. Banaface? We only want about 2,000 to 3,000 words, and you can probably knock it out in 20 minutes. It doesn't have to be real deep—just real funny."

"Wake up, Hank. It's your boss on the phone. No, he didn't have any trouble understanding your column for today. He says he just doesn't understand why you thought you could get by with it, and he needs a substitute—quick!"

Indian Leader to Visit Moscow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi is planning a trip soon to Moscow, her press secretary announced today.

Her talks with Soviet leaders reportedly will deal with Soviet misgivings about Mrs. Gandhi's economic policies, which has included attracting private American investors rather than concentrating on the "public sector" in India's mixed economy.

The Soviet Union and its economic aid—about a billion dollars committed thus far—play an important role in India's economic planning.

Woman Killed in Camden Wreck

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP)—Three cars collided on U.S. 79 inside the city limits here Monday, killing Mrs. James Bass, 39, of near Camden, and injuring three other persons.

Police said a car driven by Mrs. Bass collided with a tractor-trailer truck driven by Bobby Gene Waters, 37, of Stephans. The truck had jackknifed while trying to stop at the rear of a line of traffic, they said.

The third car involved was driven by Mrs. Anita Pigue Lemond, 34, of Fort Worth, Tex. officers said. Waters and Mrs. Lemond's daughters, Diana, 10, and Lelane, 3, were treated at a hospital here and released.

Hoffa Aims to Control His Union

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa confirmed today that if he goes to prison he intends to resume control of the world's largest union when he gets out.

Without commenting directly on his two federal convictions, Hoffa said he plans to rewrite the union's constitution to restore himself to power if he becomes "unavailable" for a while.

Hoffa chatted amiably and frankly like a man without a worry in the world, despite 13 years in pending prison sentences, in an interview outlining plans for the Teamsters' July 4 convention in Miami Beach.

"It will be a very important convention," Hoffa said — perhaps the most crucial in his nine stormy years as head of the giant union.

Hoffa is expected to be re-elected to a new five-year term by acclamation when the 2,200 convention delegates meet.

He spelled out fully for the first time the proposed constitutional change to create a new post of general vice president, or executive vice president.

The general vice president would automatically succeed Hoffa if he lost his appeals and went to prison, or became unavailable for any other reason.

If Hoffa again became "available" before the end of his regular five-year term as president, the vice president automatically would step back down for Hoffa to resume his post as union chief — all without a special convention or election.

"There are two good reasons for this," Hoffa said.

"First, it costs $2.5 million to $3 million to hold a convention. Second, a special convention would create the problem that you might not have fair representation," because some union locals might not have the money to send delegates.

"For instance, it costs my own home local (Detroit) $50,000 to go to a convention," Hoffa said.

With Hoffa's eight-year jury tampering sentence under review by the Supreme Court, and his five-year mail fraud sentence still to go before the U.S. Court of Appeals, Hoffa, 53, is still a long way from prison.

Even if his appeals fail he could be eligible for parole after serving one-third of his sentences and could be free again before his five-year term as Teamsters' chief expires.

Hoffa already has tapped his Detroit friend, Teamsters' Vice President Frank Fitzsimmons, to fill the new post of general vice president and hold down the president's chair for him if he loses his appeals.

In the only major opposition, Vice President Harold Gibbons, one-time top assistant to Hoffa until they broke in a personal spat, has let it be known through close associates that he intends to fight Fitzsimmons for the role of Hoffa's heir-apparent.

Gown Wasn't Traditional

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mace Goodman, 17, wore a gown at his high school graduation, but it wasn't the traditional one—it was a hospital gown.

Since the youth, who broke his leg and dislocated his shoulder in a motorcycle accident June 8, couldn't go to the graduation ceremonies, the ceremonies were brought to him.

Fellow students at Hollywood Professional School—many of them film and television actors—crowded into the surgical amphitheater at UCLA's White Memorial Hospital Monday for the graduation ceremonies.

No Foundation by Accident

Income Tax Tattletales

Last year, Uncle Sam collected an extra $13 million in income taxes because somebody tattled for pay.

Most tips about income tax fraud come in anonymously, from people seeking no reward beyond the satisfaction of doing their duty—or of getting even with someone they don't like.

But in 1965, a typical year, 4,000 informers filed formal claims for a reward. And the government paid out $600,000 for their information.

The practice of paying money for tax tips has existed ever since the early days of the republic. In each year's budget Congress sets aside a specific sum for this purpose.

There are those who condemn the whole idea. They argue that tattling is unsportsmanlike, not in keeping with our traditions. Certainly, generations of American readers have despised Tom Sawyer's half brother Sid for tattling on Tom to Aunt Polly.

On the other hand, tax cheaters are not as endearing as Tom Sawyer. And, as one court put it: "It is the duty of every citizen to communicate to his government any information which he has of the commission of an offense against its laws."

The Internal Revenue Service takes no position on fine philosophical grounds. Its job is simply to collect all the money that the government has coming—and informers are a big help. Using them not only puts the IRS on the track of cheaters but also helps to keep many a tempted citizen honest.

How much can an informer collect? Up to 10 percent of what the government recovers, which can be considerable. However, the exact amount is left largely to the discretion of the IRS.

In one case an informer sued the government, complaining that he wasn't paid as much as his information was worth. But he got nowhere. The court said the IRS is obliged to make an honest evaluation of services rendered, but is not obliged to pay what others may consider a fair sum.

In another way, too, the IRS has the last word. For the informer, having won his reward, must then pay income tax on it.

In fact, there have even been cases in which informers themselves were fined for failing to pay the tax on their reward. No doubt Tom Sawyer would have a phrase for that:

Poetic justice.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

The wedding of Miss Kathy Jo James and David Wayne Griffith was solemnized Sunday, June 5 at 4 p. m. in the Walnut Street Church of Christ with the pastor, Milton Peebles, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Frances James and Jim James of Hope, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Griffith of Cushing, Oklahoma.

Traditional wedding music was furnished by a double chorus, which sang prior to the ceremony and also presented the wedding marches. Candles were lighted by Darla Kay and Stan James, sister and brother of the bride. White gaidolus and stock decorated the altar where the double-ring vows were exchanged.

Glen in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight satin. The lace-trimmed bodice had a round neckline and long sleeves that ended in lily points over the hands. A scalloped back effect swept into a chapel-length train. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a coronet trimmed with a tiny bow. Her bouquet of white bridal roses was enhanced with ivy and fleur d'amour.

Mrs. William Gilbert of Crossett, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She was attired in deep rose peau de sole made on empire lines and trimmed with pale pink velvet and had a pale rose and veil for her headpiece. She carried a single, long-stemmed pink rose. Bridesmaids were Misses Sandra Byers, Susan Erwin, and Martha Hinkle. Their dresses, fashioned like that of the honor attendant, were pale pink peau de sole trimmed in a deep rose velvet, and each carried a single long-stemmed rose to match the veil.

Barbie Watson was dressed similar to the other attendants and served as the flower girl. Steven Gilbert of Crossett, nephew of the bride, as the ring bearer.

John Lee of Cushing, Okla., was the best man. Groomsmen were Cannon Flowers, Dick Willis, and Jim James, Jr., brother of the bride. Ushers were Vic Massanelli and Lynn Montgomery.

For the wedding of her daughter Mrs. James wore a pink lace costume suit with matching accessories. Mrs. Griffith, mother of the groom, wore blue lace with blending accessories, and each had a white cymbidium orchid.

A reception for the couple followed the wedding. It was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim James on East Third. The bride's table was covered with white over pale pink. Wedding bells and bows were used at the corners of the table, while pink candles in silver candelabra, pink roses and white stock centered the table. Misses Kay and Ruth Ann Griffith of Cushing, sisters of the groom, served.

The groom's table was covered with a brown taffeta cloth and decorated with yellow candles and flowers. Miss Becky Waller served the cake. Presiding at the bride's book were Mrs. John Kelly, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Bill Watson, Mrs. J. W. Franks, and Mrs. Freeda Greenan. Little Miss Betsy Franks gave out the rice bags. On a wedding trip to New Orleans the bride wore blue with a corsage of white roses made of flowers from her wedding bouquet. Upon their return to Hope they will be at home at Freeda's Angus Farms, where he is the manager.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding and reception were: Mr. and Mrs. L. L. James, Mr. and HELEN HELP US!

— by Helen Bottel —

Youth Asked For It
This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help US! this newspaper.

College Guys Good Time Charlies?

Dear Helen: These college guys can sure hurt a girl. I live in a college town, and twice now I've thought it was "real," only to be told at the end of spring term that they were going back to their girls at home. I work at a drive-in and didn't quite finish high school. These fellows just "use" us local girls. Any solution, Helen? —Available Substitute.

Dear A. S. Now that you know the score, why don't you drop out of the game? I'm sure you can find a local fellow for all seasons. — H.

I wish this wouldn't happen so often, or else it would happen in another neighborhood. Our family can't move because we are too poor. How can I stop these fights? How can I help to stop people from getting hurt? How can I help earn money for my family? I am 12 years old and can't find a job anywhere. — Slum Bum

Dear S.B.: I wish I had a sure fire answer to all your questions but all I can say is, "Act the way you want others to act and perhaps they'll lean from a boy how MEN should behave." You might apply for a paper route at your local newspaper office. And how about taking a few free courses at summer school? Street gangs fight because they haven't anything better to do. Keep busy, talk your friends into joining you, and perhaps soon you'll have the right kind of gang — not "slum bums," but good kids on the way up. — H.

Teen Boost of The Month Club
It's called "Youth Out Reach" and it couldn't have a better name. It is just that: teenagers reaching other teenagers on the Lower East Side of New York.

It began three years ago when a group of young people from Brookdale (New Jersey) Baptist Church decided on their own to start a Youth Center in the teaming Lower East Side. They rent a store (formerly used by a dope pusher) for $35 a month; they carried out bushels of dirt and junk, cleaned and painted, and after many frustrating moments, finally saw the idea of a Christina Youth Club catch on. Within a year they expanded to a larger hall at 279 East 3rd Street, where it is today.

Bob Rendel, a senior at Bloomfield, New Jersey, high school, describes a typical evening: "Before even opening the door of the youth center we come before God in prayer. The many miraculous answers to prayer we have witnessed on the Lower East Side have strengthened our trust in God for help in the work. The center is opened at 8 p. m. Within half a minute, the guys are enthusiastically deciding over the pool table to see who will break. The girls are but all I can say is, 'Act the pulling out sewing machines and way you want others to act and is brewing. Some play Spanish checkers or dominoes. We have a TV that works some of the time. It's usually about the middle of the evening when the tide of weights are hauled out and the guys try to out-do each other. Besides all these, what takes up most of the night is just plain old talk.

"By 11 p. m. everyone is ready to wind things up. Then it's 'adios' until next Friday night." The hard working and idealistic teenagers of Brookdale Baptist Church are new members of HHU's Teen Boost of the Month Club. They not only share their lives with young people who desperately need any help that is offered, but they raise the money, near $100 each month to pay rent and upkeep on the old building that houses Yut Out Reach — H.

Movie Actor Is Some Improved

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Actor Edward G. Robinson, 72, who suffered abdominal injuries in a traffic accident Wednesday, was improving at Mt. Sinai Hospital, officials reported Sunday night.

6 Players Involved in Baseball Swap

BOSTON (AP) — The lowly Boston Red Sox and the Kansas City Athletics, striving to trade their way up in the American League standings, have completed a six-player swap which involved an outfielder and two pitchers from each team.

The Red Sox, seeking a starting pitcher, acquired right-hander Rolie Sheldon, relief pitcher John Wyatt and outfielder Jose Tartabull in Monday night's trade which came just 48 hours before the Wednesday midnight trading deadline.

The Athletics received outfielder Jim Gosger and a pair of relievers—Ken Sanders, who was drafted from Kansas City last winter, and Guido Grilli, a left-hander who boasts a 3-0 record with Boston's Toronto farm team in the International League.

Just four days ago, the Athletics completed a multiplayer swap with the New York Yankees, picking up pitchers Bill Stafford and Gil Blanco and outfielder Roger Repoz in exchange for pitcher Fred Talbot and left-handed hitting catcher Bill Bryan.

Blanco was assigned to the A's Southern League farm club at Mobile.

Ralston Tunes Up for the Wimbledon

By GEOFFREY MILLER

Associated Press Sports Writer LONDON (AP) — Dennis Ralston, leading American contender for next week's Wimbledon tennis tournament, tuned up Monday with a 6-3, 7-5 victory over Japan's Osamu Ishiguro — but he was way below his best form.

The Davis Cup star from Bakersfield, Calif., hit some devastating backhands but also plenty of careless shots in reaching the second round of the London's Queen's Club tournament — the last event before Wimbledon.

The Wimbledon seeds are scheduled to be announced today, with the draw Wednesday. The Queen's Club courts were slow after rain. Several world stars, anxious for practice on English grass played erratic tennis — and Ralston was one of them.

Cliff Richey of Dallas, America's only other serious male hope for Wimbledon had to struggle all the way to overcome Daniel Conté of France 7-5, 6-8, 6-4 in the second round. Each had a bye in the first round.

Rookie Hurler Blanks Chicago for the Angels

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer Minnie Rojas "come out and get it" pitch has American League hitters biting off more than they can chew.

The rookie California pitcher, who has been accused of showing up Stu Miller as a speed merchant, blanked Chicago for six innings Monday night as the Angels salvaged a doubleheader split by edging the White Sox 2-1.

Rojas has started two games and won both since his call-up from the Angels' Seattle farm club last month while compiling a sharp 1.35 earned run average in seven appearances over-all. He also has alienated opposing hitters with his teasing delivery.

"He's got three pitches — slower and 'come out and get it,'" one frustrated slugger has said of the 27-year-old right-hander, whom the Angels purchased from a Mexican League club earlier in the year for the bargain price of $2,500.

"How can he expect to pitch up here with junk like that," muttered another hitter recently after a losing battle with Rojas' change-up.

The White Sox, who had won the rain-delayed first game 5-1, reached Rojas for only four hits and no runs until the seventh inning. Then, after making J. C. Marti his sixth strikeout victim, Rojas gave up a single to Sox newcomer Jerry Adair, hit Floyd Robinson with a pitch and walked Smokey Burgess, filling the bases.

Bob Lee then replaced Rojas and got out of the jam when left fielder Willie Smith grabbed John Romano's liner and doubled Adair at the plate with a rifle throw.

Elsewhere, Frank Robinson's three-run homer and a two-run shot by Brooks Robinson led Baltimore past New York 4-3. Detroit nipped Washington 4-0 and Minnesota divided a twin-night twin bill with Kansas City dropping the opener 5-2 before rebounding in the second game 6-1. The Boston-Cleveland game was rained out.

Philadelphia swept a doubleheader from Atlanta 6-2 and 6-4. New York beat St. Louis 5-2 in the first game of a two-nighter but bowed 4-1 in the second. San Francisco blanked Chicago 8-0, Pittsburgh edged Cincinnati 5-4 and Houston topped Los Angeles 9-6 in 11 innings in National League play.

Arkansas in Lead in Fort Smith Tourney
FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. J. J. Freeman Jr. of Little Rock and Mrs. McCloud Sircard of Fort Smith led Arkansas golfers in the Trans-Mississippi Women's Amateur tournament Monday.

Each carded a 9-over-par 81 on the Hardscrabble Country Club course. They and Dorothy Germain were the only three state golfers to make the championship flight in qualifying rounds.

Miss Germain, of Blytheville, got the final spot in the flight when she made a 3-foot tupton the second hole of a sudden-death playoff with Suanne Willis of Catoosa, Okla. and Lida Fee Matthews of Portsmouth, Ohio. Each shot 83.

Three former state champions had their difficulties. Lea Larson of Clarksville, 1962 champion, missed the play-off by one stroke. Mrs. Anne Gookin of Pine Bluff, 1960 state leader, carded an 89 and Mrs. Jim Wellons, winner in 1963, had an 88.

NL Scheduling—All in 'Formula'

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

CINCINNATI — (NEA) — The National League very innocently lists Fred C. Fleig as its secretary.

Fred C. Fleig wishes his job were that simple.

Fleig is:
• Supervisor of the National League schedule.
• Supervisor of the National League umpires.

He has been doing this for the last 15 years. His next job may be with the United Nations because no one is more adept at handling complaints than Fred Fleig.

After the Memorial Day weekend, most of the complaints on Fleig's desk were aimed at the schedule.

Three teams—the Phillies, Mets and Dodgers—made cross-country trips after playing Sunday afternoon games on the West Coast.

The Mets and Phillies, after early-morning arrivals in New York, struggled through a doubleheader the next afternoon (1:05 p.m.) at Shea Stadium while the Dodgers had a 7 p.m. game at Atlanta.

"There's always some grumbling," Fleig said. "But I've spoken to the players and tried to tell them our side. Most of them understand."

Schedule-making is one of the most unpublicized complexities in baseball.

"You have to take so many things into account," Fleig said, "like holidays, Sundays, the American League schedules, what teams draw better on what days . . ."

"I have figures showing what every club in the league draws on certain days. In Chicago, for example, Wednesday is the best weekday."

"In making the schedule certain rules must be followed. With Chicago playing only day home games, this sometimes is a problem."

"For example, you cannot, except in the case of a rain-out, schedule a day-doubleheader after a night game. And you cannot play an afternoon game following a night game unless you get the players' permission."

"Keeping this in mind, you try to help the clubs as much as possible. But there is no such thing as a perfect schedule."

The National League, Fleig explained, works on a mathematical 3-3-3-1 system which sounds more like some type of football defense.

"It works like this," he said. "We have three geographical groupings: the East (Phillies, Mets, Pirates), the Midwest (Braves, Reds, Cardinals) and the West (Astros, Giants, Dodgers). Chicago serves as the swing team."

"The schedule will have two geographical areas playing each other like West vs. Midwest. In that case, the Cubs play one of the three eastern teams to balance the schedule out."

"Balance" is a key word in the schedule. Right now, Los Angeles and San Francisco are the best draws in the league. This year, they opened at home with the swing team, Chicago.

"Well, to help at the gate, we'll get them with another geographical section during the opening week next year. We try to spread these things out evenly each year."

"We work a year ahead on the schedule. By the middle of September we're ready to submit the first draft for the new season to the teams."

"The teams then have the right to switch dates around (the switches must be approved by the league office). That's why you'll sometimes see a team in a certain city for just one game. But we never schedule 'one-game series.' There are always two on the first draft."

"What the clubs do is take an early-season night game, for instance, and switch it to the meatier part of the schedule (Memorial Day to Labor Day). By doing this, they feel they can get more out of the date."

"Another thing we never do is manipulate the schedule where the weak teams play the stronger or the strong play the strong at the end of the season. We do it strictly by the formula."

"I've had people come to me after an exciting stretch run and say, 'Boy, you sure devised a good schedule.' We did nothing of the sort. It was the formula."

"Splitting the Sundays and holidays also is an important part of making the schedule. These are the best drawing days. A team will have either 12 Sundays and two holidays at home each year or 13 Sundays and one holiday."

"There is an artistic approach to all of this. You must have a certain flow, a certain sequence."

Even if it means some lost sleep for players.

After all, there were 46,882 at Shea Stadium for the Memorial Day doubleheader between the Mets and Phillies.

A crowd like that should pay a few salaries.

Clemente Has Exploded for the Pirates

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer Now that National League pitchers have turned Donn Clendenon's power off, they've turned Roberto Clemente's on.

And it's proved a shocking experience for them.

Billy McCool was the latest victim of the Clemente explosion as the Pittsburgh star lashed a three-run homer that gave the Pirates a 5-4 victory over Cincinnati Monday night.

The homer was the ninth for the flashy right fielder this season, just one short of his total last year and the runs batted in gave him 36 for the season, fifth best in the league and more than half as many as the 65 he had in 1965.

Why the sudden power surge for Clemente who has built three batting championships on hits that stay inside the park?

"Clendenon isn't like he was last year," the 31-year-old Puerto Rican explained after helping the Reds to their 14th loss in 18 games. "If he comes back again, I'll start punching the ball again. But I've been taking a good cut and swinging hard."

Clendenon was the Pirates' second leading slugger last year but has gotten off to a slow start with only four homers and 22 runs driven in.

Clemente, meanwhile, is headed for his best slugging year. In 11 major league seasons he's averaged 1 homers and 66 RBI while batting .309.

This season is just slightly more than one-third gone, and he's rapidly approaching those figures as well as hitting .330, the second best average in the league.

His latest effort was a dramatic performance. McCool had just relieved starter Joey Jay in the eighth inning, coming on with two men aboard and the Reds leading 4-2.

McCool worked the count to 1-2 before Clemente, a right-handed batter, drove the ball into the upper right field stands.

Elsewhere in the NL, San Francisco crushed Chicago 8-0, Houston trimmed Los Angeles 9-6 in 11 innings, Philadelphia swept Atlanta 6-2 and 6-4 and New York defeated St. Louis 5-2 before bowing 11-4.

In the American League, Baltimore walloped New York 8-0, Detroit edged Washington 4-3, Minnesota defeated Kansas City 6-1 after losing 5-2 and Chicago downed California 5-1, then lost 2-1. Rain halted Boston at Cleveland.

PITCHING—Jack Lamabe, Chicago, pitched a five-hitter as Philadelphia 5-1 in the opener of a doubleheader.

BATTING—Frank Malone, California, homered in the fifth inning and singled and scored in the ninth as the Angels edged the White Sox 2-1 in the second game of the doubleheader.

Land's End and John O'Groats are the two extremes of Great Britain.

How many times have you heard or seen an irate professional glaring or yelling about the news photographer snapping pictures during a swing?

It happens at least once a tournament.

So the Golf Society of Great Britain, at a recent conference, released the findings of scientists who studied this problem.

Bernard Hunt, one of England's top golfers, could only say, "I'm amazed," when he heard the report.

The scientists say that golfers cannot "be put off their stroke by the clicking of a camera when they have been at the top of the swing." And that is when most pictures are snapped.

The report says that once a player has completed "roughly three-quarters of his backswing, he is fully committed, and nothing that may happen to distract him after that can have any effect on the outcome of the shot."

The scientists reached their conclusion by calculating the time it takes "for the brain to register a distraction like the clicking of a camera shutter and for the consequent reaction to this distraction."

The time, they say, is longer than the time it takes the top pros to go from three-quarters of his backswing to impact. Thus, "any reaction to a distraction after the player has completed three-quarters of his backswing only occurs after impact." It has no effect on the outcome of the stroke.

In Era of Arnie and Jack

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO—(NEA)—The 1966 United States Open is Ben Hogan revisited.

This is where the Hawk made his last important stand in big-time golf, at the Olympic Country Club, a reconstructed sand dune a half mile in from the Pacific Ocean.

The year was 1955 and Hogan, then 42, miraculously recovered from a near fatal automobile accident, was already in the clubhouse, the leader at the end of the fourth round. While Ben, a cautious man, wasn't acknowledging the congratulations, nobody really saw anybody keeping him from winning his fifth Open championship.

There was one guy still out on the course with a chance, but he needed to birdie two of the four finishing holes to tie Hogan's 287. Nobody ever heard of Jack Fleck before.

Hogan sat in the lockerroom, sipping on a Scotch and water, slumped in tiredness and said that if he won he'd never work at tournament golf again.

In those days the early finishers didn't watch their competitors come in on television. News filtered in on the rumor route, and now Ben heard that on the 18th hole, a par four, Fleck needed a birdie to tie. But his drive had landed in the rough, 110 yards away from the plateaued cup.

The guy that nobody knew hit a low trajectory seven-iron seven feet from the cup, stroked it firmly in. Hogan heard the tremendous roar of the gallery — 10,000 grouped in the natural amphitheatre which framed the last hole—cursed and sighed. He went out to play the next day, lost the playoff to Fleck, and never again came that close to winning one of golf's glamor tournaments.

In fact, Ben hasn't even bothered to play the U.S. Open since 1961—until this year. They demeaned him when they told him he'd have to go out and qualify like any young kid just coming around. So this summer the United States Golf Association relented and issued a special invitation to Ben.

He'll be there. From tee to green he'll still hit the ball as he always did, though he's now 53 years old. Until he gets tired from walking the swales and knolls of Olympic, he might even throw off the nerves that have affected his putting touch.

They'll romanticize the tight-lipped Texan, the mechanical man who drained all emotion from his game and must now, ironically, get swallowed up in a gush of sentiment.

But inevitably, Hogan must fade from contention because this is the era of Arnie Palmer, who flies a jet plane from tournament to tournament and was 25 years old, in his first year as a pro, when Hogan last made the scene at Olympic.

Amend that to Arnie Palmer AND Jack Nicklaus, who also flies his own plane.

Nicklaus is 26 and burly, with notions of Grand Slam under his reddish blond thatch. He achieved the important first step by winning the Masters in April. Arnie occasionally gets the yips around the green and a month ago pulled a back muscle driving off a tee in New Orleans.

"I feel like maybe the rest has done me some good," says Arnie hopefully. He last won the Open in 1960. It was the only time he won it.

Nicklaus has won the Open, too, at Oakmont, Pa., in 1962, his second year on the pro tour.

He's probably the greatest golfer in the world, but one Open championship doesn't put him in a class with Hogan, who is among the select few able to dominate a sport in their own time.

Ben has won four Open championships.

And even if his appearance at Olympic is notable chiefly for the nostalgia it evokes, his time's not completely up.

IN STEP—Washington second baseman Bob Savarin knows the steps, but it didn't help on this hard drive, which wound up in right field for a base hit.

'Everybody's Got a Gripe'

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The Cincinnati Reds brass wonders why a team with so much talent hasn't won pennants the past two years and isn't out front in the race this year.

Perhaps, suggest several Cincy players, the answer to the puzzle is sitting on the Reds' bench.

"Too much talent," one player said. "This may be a precedent in baseball. Any way you slice it, it's a problem."

"Everybody's got a gripe. The difference in ability between some of the regulars and some of the guys on the bench is nil.

"So when a so-called regular sits out a couple of games, he's mad. And when a non-regular doesn't even get to pinch-hit for a week, he's burned."

"It's the grumpiest bunch I ever saw," said Gerry Arrigo, a pitcher recently waived to the Mets when Joe Nuxhall was taken off the disabled list. "There's more than one guy in Cincinnati who'd gladly trade places with me, just for the chance to play."

All manager Don Heckner will say is that "this club has more bench strength than any I've ever seen." He won't call it a "personnel problem."

Nor will owner Bill DeWitt. In the first month of the season, Heckner fielded a dozen different lineups, according to one bench-sitter's count.

The Reds have had five first-basemen—Gordy Coleman, Tony Perez, Don Pavletich, Deron Johnson and Lee May.

Vada Pinson has been the only outfield regular, playing two positions, center and right.

Otherwise Heckner has platooned Tommy Harper, Johnson, Mel Queen, Art

Shamsky and, occasionally, Dick Simpson, in the outfield. May has been sent down. "There just wasn't room," Heckner said. Last year at San Diego, May hit .321 with 34 homers and 104 runs batted in.

PART-TIME SLUGGER—Cincinnati outfielder Art Shamsky whacked seven homers in his first 40 times at bat this season. How many would he hit, he asks, if he could play regularly?

Simpson, acquired in the Robinson trade, wonders why the Reds wanted him in the first place. He hit .301 for Seattle last year.

Some say Pavletich, who hit .319 in 68 games for Cincinnati in 1965, is threatening to take Johnny Edwards' job.

"But, then," asked Art Shamsky, "how can you keep a catcher like Edwards out of the lineup?"

Substitute a position and a name, and it is a question they ask up and down the Reds' bench.

"Take Chico Ruiz," said Shamsky. "He, like about 10 other bench-sitters on this club, could play regular anywhere in the league. I think Ruiz must be going nuts. He got to bat only 18 times last year. He isn't the same guy I knew two years ago."

Shamsky said he has complained to Heckner. The Reds' best pinch-hitter last season (14 for 40), Shamsky whacked seven homers in his first 40 at bats this spring.

"I just wanted to know what you got to do to become a regular," he said. "But we all know it must not be easy for Heckner. There will always be a couple of guys who beef, but this is ridiculous."

—Baseball Or Birds?

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—And Mickey Mantle and Willie Mays think they have problems getting out of the ball park after a game!

They should talk to Cyril Knowles.

Knowles' headaches aren't with hordes of sleeve-tugging kids begging autographs, or drunks who breathe, "I just wanted to shake yer hand, pal."

"It's worse than that," Knowles said. "Birds. Thousands of birds."

In England, where Knowles is the defensive standout and glamor puss of the Tottenham Hotspurs soccer team, "birds" is what young Britons call women.

"I believe you call them chicks here in the states, don't you? They can get bloody awful sometimes, with their pulling and hollering. It could turn a man against marriage."

Knowles, 21, spoke as he sat in Yankee Stadium watching his first baseball game. The Hotspurs, one of England's top soccer teams, currently are touring the United States and Canada, playing exhibition matches with a team from Bologna, Italy.

"That fellow out there, Mickey what's-his-name. I've heard about him. Is it true he makes 35,000 quid (roughly $100,000) a year? Wager birds drive him crazy."

It was explained to Knowles that Mantle is married and that American gals generally don't riot around athletes. They make themselves available—the ever-present blonde behind the dugout—but the clamor and hero-worship comes mostly from hard-core baseball fans and poyoped kids.

So how does a star athlete in England combat the problem?

"You have to keep devising tricky ways to sneak out of the football stadium. You can't have a routine or they get onto it quick. The Beatles and the Rolling Stones are very clever that way."

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Harold Henning believes it is better for all concerned that he won't be playing in the National Open this year.

Next year perhaps he'll have a go at all that prestige and prize money, but not this time.

"This is my first year on the American tour," said Henning. "I am a foreigner. I've got to be careful."

Harold Henning, 31 of Johannesburg, South Africa, probably is the best-known golfer in the world.

That's because he holds 25 international titles, more than any other golfer. He holds more than 50 titles overall.

This spring he won the Malayan Open. Last year he won the German Open, the Danish Open, the Swiss Open and teamed with countryman Gary Player to win the Canada Cup, in Spain, for South Africa.

"You name a foreign tournament," he said, "and I've either won it or just missed."

Now, having conquered the world, he would like to try the United States.

"Mind you, I'm not saying I'm the world's greatest golfer," he said. "Far from it. My game is not spectacular. I just play hard and steady."

"On the world tour I was a big fish in a little pond. It is just the opposite in the States."

Henning stresses that in his first year on the American tour he must not step on certain toes. He does not carry a Professional Golfers Association tournament card, which means he has to get "invited" to tournaments by the sponsors.

The problem is resentment among spectators, sometimes even among competitors, when a foreigner wins the big money.

Already Henning has attracted considerable attention, not only for his superb play but for his good looks. "He's a ringer for Maximilian Schell," said his American agent.

In his first six U. S. tournaments this year, Henning won a total of $22,310. The most he ever won in one year on the world tour was $40,000, including $28,000 for a hole-in-one.

His lowest finish so far was

HAROLD HENNING
"So here I am"

a tie for 22nd in the Masters. He tied for second in the Dallas Open, then won the Texas Open the following week, good for $13,000.

"I've been playing only the Masters for the past seven or eight years. People kept telling me I could do well on the U.S. tour, so here I am."

"I didn't get an invitation to the Texas Open. They said they were filled up. But then when I did well in Dallas, the Texas Open people called me. And I won it."

"There probably are a few people who resent it, too. Similar things have happened to other foreigners—Roberto DeVincenzo, Peter Thompson, Kel Nagle and Player. The welcome mat could wear thin someday, if we aren't careful."

"On the other hand, foreign golfers probably have helped add interest to tournament golf in the States. Foreign golfers who get to play here have to be somebody, judged only on what we've won."

"This adds to the competition, which means the stakes EVERYBODY plays for will be higher."

Henning recalled last year's National Open at Bellerive in St. Louis when Player, of South Africa, beat Nagle, of Australia, in a playoff and then turned his $25,000 check over to charities.

"It was a noble thing Gary did," said Henning. "It was also wise."

CYRIL KNOWLES

seventh? Pardon me for knocking it, but this game's a bloody bore. There's no excitement here."

Knowles obviously was paying little attention to the blonde behind the dugout.

Marina of Aguas Frias

The road to Aguas Frias is steep and rocky, shunned by taxi drivers from Medellin, the great city far below in a lush, green valley of northern Colombia. So the American girl climbed on foot to the village in June of 1964. She came not as a tourist, but to live with poor farming families scratching out a living on the mountainside, isolated from the city below and even from each other. She came to help build a school, to teach the children and to encourage the sharing of hopes, plans and labor for a better life for all. And when, almost two years later, the time came to say goodbye, Aguas Frias poured forth its gratitude to the girl it knew as Marina . . .

Maureen Orth, 23, B.A. Political Science, University of California, 1964 . . . Peace Corps volunteer.

Few outsiders have even heard of Aguas Frias. Fewer still had paid the mountain village of 60 families any attention until Peace Corps Volunteer Maureen Orth arrived.

Maureen's first project was a school. She helped raise funds and organized work parties for construction of "Escuela Marina Orth"—a long, low building consisting of one large classroom and quarters for a teacher.

Maureen encouraged community action, organizing a junta—a community committee—and aiding it in dealing with government authorities.

Farewell was said with tears and smiles . . . both of gratitude.

Adios Marina. Four young faces sadly speak for the loss felt by all of Aguas Frias as the plane departs for the United States.

Her friends of Aguas Frias remained with Maureen until the last moment, waiting with her at the Medellin airport for the plane that was to take her away from one home and back to another.

Leonid Brezhnev Robert McNamara Sen. William Fulbright Mao Tse-tung

Sharp Romanian criticism of Kremlin policies brought a hurried visit of Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev to Bucharest. The House Armed Services Committee served notice on Defense Secretary Robert McNamara that it will keep close watch that he does not become a "caesar" in the Pentagon. Sen. William Fulbright's assertions of "arrogance" in use of U.S. power heightened his conflict with the White House over Viet Nam policy. Obviously triller appearance of Mao Tse-tung, back in the public eye after six months in seclusion, increased Western speculation on approaching changes in Communist Chinese leadership.

East Comes West

Starkly modern, the model of the Yugoslav pavilion reveals emphasis on triangular forms.

Three of the most distinctive pavilions at Montreal's world's fair next year—EXPO 67—will be flying the flags of three Communist nations—the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia and Cuba.

Cuba describes its design as "a superposition of parallelepipeds" reflecting the dynamism of the Cuban exhibit.

The cantilevered Soviet pavilion will contain a hall of space technology, theater, restaurants and bars.

Burial Insurance For Cars?

A decent interment for every automobile that has come to the end of its road is being sought of the federal government — naturally, at the taxpayers' expense. A bill to provide built-in burial insurance with the purchase of each new car has been offered by Sen. Paul Douglas, (D., Ill.) The senator is alarmed because we are literally up to our knees in junked cars and the pile is getting higher every day.

The statistics are disturbing. Between 30 and 40 million autos rust away in 15,000 auto graveyards, or take up space on city streets or in vacant lots. While the number of new cars increases, their life span grows shorter. The junk rate has already outpaced the salvagers. Only about half the abandoned cars are now being processed for scrap.

Sen. Douglas wants the government to take over with a program to process the old jalopies and build a stockpile of steel scrap. The cost would be borne by a permanent one per cent tax on car sales.

He puts the problem bluntly: "Unless we do something, unless we inject the public interest into the never-ending cycle, unless we declare a war on ugliness and put a premium on beauty, it is obvious that Detroit will continue to churn out 10 million or more vehicles a year, only to deposit them a few years later on the towering scrap piles of junk and steel which will soon surround every major city and extend for miles into the countryside."

This prospect should stir interest in the senator's program to put the government in the junk business. No other agency seems big enough to handle it. Actually, unless some improvement is made on the present system of doing nothing, it may become too big even for Washington. — Miami (Fla.) Herald

In Either Case It's Spending
Among the economists who shape the government's policies there is a feeling that the people (It's always those pesky people.) have too much money and are spending it too freely. Hence the inflation, which is generally recognized as a danger, and the suggestion that the government really ought to raise taxes to sop up this excess purchasing power.

Where the economists find these people with too much money for their own good we do not know — certainly not in our neighborhood. What with the new withholding and the higher social security, most of the people we know have less money now than they had a year ago.

But let us leave this for the moment for another consideration. If the government raises taxes and picks up all the excess cash which the people are spending so frivolously, what can be expected? Why the government will spend it, of course. The government never saves anything.

What is there, then, that is so wholesome in the way people spend their own money and so beneficial in letting their government spend it for them? We wish the economists would get around to this some time. Unfortunately, they never do. — Charleston (W.Va.) Daily Mail

Justice Warren Accused of Aiding Criminals

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) — Law enforcement officials fired a salvo of criticism today at the Supreme Court's new decision riving down strict rules on the questioning of suspects.

The ruling by the high court Monday covers every police station and sheriff's office in the land.

"It's the damnest thing I ever heard of," said Police Chief Henry C. Ashley of Garland, Tex., when news of the ruling in four confession cases reached the Texas Police Association convention at Odessa. "We may as well close up shop."

What the court did in a 5-4 decision announced by Chief Justice Earl Warren was rule out of bounds in trials all incriminating statements made by a suspect whose constitutional right against possible self-incrimination are not safeguarded by the police.

The ruling split the justices into two camps, and the dissenters fired angry words at the majority.

His face visibly flushed, Justice John M. Harlan accused Warren and the four justices who lined up with him of "a hazardous experiment at a time when the crime rate in this country is a problem of growing concern."

"The court is taking a real risk with society's welfare in

Way Cleared for Ruby to Go to Trial

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The Jack Ruby murder case, plagued by legal complications and wrangles among defense lawyers, appears finally to be on its way to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Ruby's conviction and death sentence for the Nov. 24, 1963 killing of Lee Harvey Oswald has not yet technically progressed beyond the trial court level. Oswald was named by the Warren Commission as the assassin of President John F. Kennedy. Kennedy was shot Nov. 22, 1963.

But one major obstacle to the movement of Ruby's trial was removed Monday when a Dallas District Court jury ruled that the 55-year-old former strip club operator was legally sane.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals—the highest court in the state for noncivil cases—had indicated that it would not take up the appeal of the murder conviction until the sanity issue was settled.

Ruby was convicted of murder March 14, 1964, in the same court—Criminal District Court No. 3—that adjudged him sane. The defense, claiming that Ruby was insane, had requested a sanity hearing a month after the conviction. It was repeatedly delayed for various reasons.

Puerto Ricans Again Riot in Chicago Area

By JERRY KUC

CHICAGO (AP) — Police fought with more than 1,000 rioting Puerto Ricans Monday night in the second straight night of violence on Chicago's Northwest Side.

Seven Puerto Ricans were shot and wounded and 37 more were arrested before the rioting was brought under control early today, police said.

Police said one of the men was shot when he threw a fire bomb.

Police officials said the other six apparently were hit by stray bullets.

Among several other persons injured by flying bottles and bricks was John Elmer, 31, a Chicago Tribune reporter. He was released after treatment for cuts on the jaw.

Hospital authorities had no count of the injured who were treated.

Looting was reported in some stores in the area, where police ordered stores closed for the night. Glass from broken store windows littered the streets where Puerto Rican youths walked with signs charging police brutality.

Puerto Rican spokesman said they planned a protest march today from Humboldt Park to City Hall in downtown Chicago.

Three men were treated at St. Mary of Nazareth Hospital, then transferred to the Cook County Hospital. They were identified as Bienvenido Cruz, 23; Efrain Ortiz, 19; and Roberto Vasquez, 27.

Over 1,000 Enemy Killed in Big Battle

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. paratroopers clashed with North Vietnamese troops in the central highlands today and the U.S. brigade commander said the enemy is "no longer a fighting force."

At the same time, a brigade spokesman estimated the North Vietnamese, the 24th Regiment of from 1,400 to 2,000 men, had lost more than 1,000 in killed alone in a week of fighting.

Brig. Gen. Willard Pearson, commanding the 1st Brigade of the 101st Airborne Division, told reporters: "I believe this battle has set the Viet Cong timetable (of offensive action) back several months."

In the fighting on ridges 35 miles north of Kontum, Pearson said he expected a kill ratio of 14 to 1. South Vietnamese troops have joined the fighting.

The new fighting continued through the afternoon against a company-size force of about 100 North Vietnamese.

Mississippi March Is Still in Progress

By BILL CRIDER

GRENADA, Miss. (AP) Men and women of the Mississippi march, warned that hostile eyes are alert for scandalous behavior, spent another night on a grassy campsite. Nine miles of walking and another voter registration demonstration are on today's schedule.

They bedded down in two huge revivalist-style tents, in sleeping bags or on blankets spread on grass after Floyd B. McKissick, a march leader, admonished them.

"Remember Selma? A man got up in Congress after that and said civil rights people are immoral, that they were doing very personal things in the presence of each other," McKissick said.

McKissick, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, referred to accusations by segregationist groups after the Alabama march from Selma to Montgomery last year. His talk drew laughs from the crowd, some of whom had been on that march.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Government security forces, with orders to give no quarter, laid virtual siege to the Buddhist Institute today. With pistol shots and tear gas charges they choked off dozens of demonstrators after a mob burned three teens and grabbed two submachine guns from American Military Police.

Told to arrest draft-aged demonstrators on the spot and send them off to military service, troops and riot police carted away scores. Some were clubbed, kicked and beaten.

He Needs a Much Better Mouse Trap

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Marine Cpl. Norman K. Mims of Jacksonville hopes to reduce the rodent population of South Viet Nam.

Mims wrote the Jacksonville postmaster, asking for some rat traps.

"I have used everything from a slingshot to electricity to get rid of the rats and don't seem to be getting anywhere," Mims wrote. "Viet Nam has very few cats. I have seen only one, and some of the rats are bigger than he was."

"I would like to try just a plain old rat trap. I would like to have eight of the biggest ones you have."

Arthur F. Whittier, assistance postmaster and an ex-Marine, said he knew what Mims was up against because of his experiences in Guam during World War II.

Whittier bought eight traps and sent them along to Mims, with his compliments.
